

Medical Acupuncture

References and Websites

References

“Acupuncture, Electric Phenomenon of the Skin, and Postvagotomy Gastrointestinal Atony”
Matsumoto, T. Am J Surg 1973 Feb; (125): 176–180

“Acupuncture for Gastrointestinal and Hepatobiliary Disorders” Diehl, D. J Altern Compl Med
1999; 5 (1): 27–45

“The Effect of Acupuncture on Gastrointestinal Function and Disorders” Li, Y. et. al. Am J Gastroenterol
1992 Dec; 87 (10): 1372–1381

“Treatment of Small Bowel Obstruction with Acupuncture: A Case Report” Grout, M. Medical Acupuncture
2000; 12 (2)

The Body Electric: Electromagnetism and the Foundation of Life. Becker M.D., Robert. New York: William Morrow and Company, 1985.

The Web that Has No Weaver. Kaptchuk, Ted. New York: Congdon & Weed, 1983.

Websites

American Academy of Medical Acupuncture
www.medicalacupuncture.org

Includes search for finding a physician acupuncturist in your area.

Dr. Joseph Helms Medical Acupuncture for Physicians Training Program
www.hmieducation.com

Includes information on upcoming trainings. Program sponsored by UCLA School of Medicine.

The National Institute of Health (NIH) Consensus Statement
odp.od.nih.gov/consensus/cons/107/107_statement.htm

Full text.

Presented at the Association of Women Surgeons
Fall Conference 2001, New Orleans, Louisiana
Lucinda Romero, M.D., F.A.C.S.
lromeromd@yahoo.com